THIRD BLOOD DRAWN AT ST. LOUIS. A Reporter Canes a Mississippi Belegate Who Called Somebody a Liar,

Sr. Louis, June 12.-Two Mississippi gentlemen met in the corridor of the Southern Hotel to-night. Col. Sordsby was one and the other one was Mr. Afton K. Wooten, a reporter, Mr. Sordaby being a delegate. It appears that Mr. Sordaby performed a little political work a few years ago which hedidn't like talked about, and e St. Louis Post-Dispatch, in its edition this afternoon, in a pleasant way said something about it. Col. Sordsby saw it, and when he met

The eyes of Mr. Wooten shot fire at the utterance of the word liar. He raised his cane and he banged Col. Sordsley over the head a couple of times and knocked him silly. At this moment the police stepped up and said "fientlemen, gentlemen," and Col. Sordley's friends led him away. him away.

M'ALPIN NON-COMMITTAL.

Scome Pleased Over His Chances

Second Place on the Ticket. ALBANY, June 12 .- Adjt.-Gen. E. A. McAlpin eft for St. Louis this evening. Before he left he reiterated his denial that he was a candidate for the Vice-Presidential nomination, but when asked if he would refuse the nomination if it were offered to him, he replied evasively that he would cross no bridges till he came to them. He is a candidate, nevertheless, and mightily well pleased with the printed statements that McKinley and McAlpin buttons were being widely circulated, and that he was to get 397 votes from the League of Republican Clubs

Clubs.

The most significant phase of McAlpin's canwas was his eager incuiry as to whether there was a possibility of Gov. Moreon's accepting second place on the ticket. When he was assured that the Governor would not consider a proposition to take the nomination for VicePresident he showed eagerness to get to the Convention. Convention.

State Treasurer Addison B. Colvin, who also left here for St. Louis to-day, declared before he went away that his vote as a delegate would be cast for Levi P. Morron whether he was nomnated in Convention or not, and that no matter ho was nominated he would vote only for

MATTHEWS OBJECTS TO TILLMAN. Indiana Democrats Resent the Scuator's

Appearance in Their State. Indianapolis, June 12.- The managers of ov. Matthews's Presidential campaign are indignant over the bringing of Senator Tillman into the State. They declare that they were not consulted in the matter, and they express the opinion that the speeches of the "Pitchfork" Senator from South Carolina will do the cause of free silver a vast amount of harm in the State. If the friends of the Governor can have their way, Mr. Tillman's appointment for Lebanon Sacurday will be cancelled. In some places there has been a disposition on the part of the "sound-money" Democrata to the part of the "sound-money" Democrats to associate Tillmanism with Gov. Matthews's candidacy. The Matthews men wish it under-stood that they do not endorse Tillman's at-tack on the President of the United States.

JOHN C. KELLEY REAPPOINTED. He May Serve a Little Longer as Revenue

Collector in Brooklyn. John C. Kelley received notification from Washington yesterday of his reappointment by President Cleveland as Revenue Collector for the Brooklyn district. About a year ago he was appointed to succeed A. Augustus Healy, whose confirmation by the Senate was defeated by the efforts of Senator Hill. Mr. Healy was a member of the Shepardite organization, and bitterly ber of the Shepardite organization, and bitterly hostile to the regular Democracy. He was conspicuous in the anti-snap movement.

Mr. Kelley also has been a shiring light in the Shepardite ranks, and since he took charge of the revenue department has continued his hostility to the regular Democratic organization. His friends did not urge his confirmation by the Senate, believing that he would share the fate of his predecessor. Pending the filing of his bonds Deputy Collector Alexander McKinney, will have charge of the office. Mr. Kelley said:

"I consider it a higher honor to be reappointed than to be confirmed by such a Senate. I shall accept the reappointment and have my bonds filed as soon as possible. Had I been confirmed by the Senate six werks ago I should have resigned then and let my pear's record stand."

It is generally supposed in Brooklyn that Senator Hill would not have opposed Mr. Kelley's confirmation.

CAMPAIGN OF RUIN WANTS FUNDS. A Southern Capitalist's Refusal to Help

Free-silver Atabama Democrats. L. B. Musgrove, Esq., Chairman Finance Committee of the Democratic and Conservative Party of Alabama, Birmingham, Ala.

DEAR SIR: I have received your favor of June 1, asking for a contribution of $3,000 to the campaign fund of the Democratic and Conservative party of Alabama, I note also your statement that the party "stands for protection to life and property and the preservation of vested rights." This assertion is particularly pleasing to me for the reason that I had been led to suppose otherwise.

My understanding, deduced from current reports, has been that the Democratic party of Alabama is practically a unit in favor of the passage of a law providing for the free and un-limited coinage of silver. The Senators and Representatives of your State in Congress are certainly ardent advocates of this idea, and I have been led to believe that your delegation to Chicago will occupy the same position. I trust that this will not prove to be the case, but I know that you will appreciate my difficulty in and birth. My connection with Southern railroads, which has become somewhat extensive of recent years, also, I think, justifies the assertion that I am a Southerner in a material sense. I am fully aware of the trials and discouragements which now beset the Southern sense. I am fully aware of the trials and discouragements which now beset the Southern people, but I also recognize their patricitism and intelligence. If therefore, they are, as we here had been to be the control of the leidere, adveates of free college of silver by this country alone, but one conclusion is possible, and that is that they are laboring under the greatest misapprehension that has found a place in their minds since they were induced to chagage in warfare for the dissolution of the Union.

Free coinage of silver means anything but "protection to property and preservation of vested rights." It means disaster to the whole country, destruction of property, and the transformation of the Democratic party into an organized the South and he most sentionally affected the South would be the first, because in the South to-day the yreat work of rehabilitation and rejuvenation is making the most rapid material progress. You certainly, as a man of affairs, know that the most unwise thing conceivable for the South at the present time is to bush back the capital and energy which are being contributed to add in its development, and you must recognize the truth that free coinage would have prechely this effect, not in the distant future, but at once.

The properties, and so does every other bottler experience, and the bottler experience of the South that the investment of money which my friends and i have in the South the development of the people of the South that the investment of money where s sult so disastrously to the Southern people is manifest. I should be very gisat to contribute, as I have contributed in the past, to Democratic campaign funds for use in the Southern States, But for the reasons which I have given, no less than for the certainty that in the event of the success of a free coinage party I shall need every dollar I possess to weather the storm, I find myself unable to accorde to your request. With personal regards, I am yours, very truly, New York, June 11. Thomas F. Ryan.

FLOWER ON THE OUTLOOK. Free Silver Would Be Dienstrons-No

Flower arrived in this cit, this morning on the steamer Northwest and left for Watertown "Who is your choice for a Democratic candidate for President?" was asked of him by a re-

"No man who would run on a free-silver platform," he answered. "You see," con-tinued the ex-Governor, "Democratic chances this year are not as glowing as they were four years ago, and candidates are scarce. In fact, there is no Democratic candidate. It is my oninion that the Democrats had better wait until the Republicans finish at St. Louis and then, when we all assemble in Chicago, draft a good man, a third term being out of the question, of course."
"What effect will the free silver agitation have upon the Democracy?"

"Disastrous," answered Mr. Flower. "It will hurt the party terribly in the East. I know Democrats who would rather vote the will hurt the party terribly in the East. I know Democrats who would ratner vote the Republican ticket than vote for a man running on a free-silver platform."

"It is said that free-silver nen will control the Chicago Convention."

"If the published estimates are correct, maybe they can. Of course my hope and wish is that they will not. This threatening condition is the only menace to Democratic success in New York State this fall. On State issues the Democratic ought to carry New York State by 100,000, and they will, too, providing the questions raised in national issues can be kept out. There are plenty of good men in the Democratic party in this and other States who can be drafted to carry the hanner when we meet in Chicago."

"What do you think of the attitude of Mc-Kinley in refusing to express himself on the question of finance?"

"In that respect McKinley in a very wise man, a very wise man, indeed. What on earth has he got to talk for? Why should he express himself. He is absolutely certain and sure of the nomination. A half dozen more St. Louis cyclones could not stop it. He is as certain of the homination as the sun is to rise on the morning of June 10. That being the case, what has he to gain by talking: He could not help himself any. He could only injure himself. He is very wise in keeping slence and allowing the Republican platform to talk for him. Of course if he were not sure of the nomination and could gain anything by talking it would be all right for him to go ahead and talk."

Circular letter have been sent by the League of American Wheelmen to every delegate to the Republican and Democratic National Conventions, asking for the insertion in their platforms of a plank calling for road improvements. of Sterling Elliott, President; Charles F.Cossum, First Vice-President; A. Cressy Morrison, Second Vice-President, and a member from nearly every one of the States and Territories.

In urging an endorsement of the good roads movement the letter says:

"Although this is suggested by our wheelmen's organization, now having over 50,000 active members and nearly 4,000,000 associates, it is really of very much wider consequence, Your familiarity with the subject no doubt shows you that road improvement benefits the wheelmen, as such, least of all, while the general improvement of our country is incalculably fostered and promoted."

SUES AS GOULD'S WIDOW.

MRS. ANGELL'S CLAIM ON THE RAILWAY KING'S ESTATE. The Story of a Marriage in 1858 Gets Into

Court-Commission to Examine the Cler-syman Who Thinks He Remembers the Marriage and Two Alleged Witnessen, An action brought by Sarah Ann Angell, calling herself the widow of Jay Gould, for the ad-measurement of her dower rights in his real cetate, was before Justice Beach of the Supreme BUFFALO, June 12 .- Ex-Gov. Roswell P. Court yesterday. It came up under the title 'Angell vs. von Briesen et al" on a motion made by Lawyer George S. Coleman, repre-Ward & Cameron of Albany, attornies for the plaintiff, asking that a commission issue to take the depositions of aged and infirm witnesses residing outside the State. The defendats mentioned in the papers are Edwin Gould, Helen M. Gould, and Arthur von Briesen, the latter being included as a party defendant only because he happens to be the tenant of the Gould house at 1 East Fortyseventh street, part of the realty left by Jay

The complaint in the action, which was veriled in Albany on May 20, alleges that the plaintiff was, on or about April 16,1853, married to lay Gould, late of the city and county of New York, in this State; that she cohabited with him as his lawful wife, and that the said Jay Gould died on or about the second day of De-cember, 1892, leaving the plaintiff, "his cember, 1892, leaving the plaintiff, "his lawful widow, him surviving." It also alleges ownership by Jay Gould of the houses at 1 hast Forty-seventh street and 579 Fifth avenue, the first of which he devised to Edwin Gould and the other to Helen M. Gould, The demand for Judgment is that the plaintiff be declared to be entitled to dowry in the real estate mentioned, and that her dower be admeasured. John F. Dillon, who, with Winslow S. Pierce, appeared for the Goulds, read in opposition to the motion the affidavit of Edwin and Helen Gould. They deposed that their father was a month under 17 years of age at the date of the alleged marriage; that he married their mother in 1863, and that for nearly thirty years, down to the time of his death, was a conspicuous and well-known man in this State, and yet no such claim as the plaintiff's was ever pressed during his lifetime; that attempts have been made at various times to extort money from the affants by persons purporting to come from the plaintiff in the present action, and who claimed to know the state.

Rows man in this State, and yet no such claim as the plaintiff's was ever pressed during his lifetime; that attempts have been made at various times to extert money from the affants by persons purporting to come from the claimit in the present action, and who claimed to know of the alleged marriage and of the existence of a marriage certificate, some even going as far as to claim to have seen the latter.

After reading the afficient Mr. Dillon said that the case was one where the right of cross-examination of witnesses should be preserved, and he therefore objected to interrogatories. The defendants, he said, were willing to pay all of the expenses of the witnesses in question if they could only be brought into this state and examined here, but cross-examinations could not be conducted intelligently until the witnesses had answered the questions on the direct examination. The defendants' fichts, he said, could not be secured by cross-interrogatories.

Justice levels at the conclusion of the argument, said that an open commission might issue. This means a commission representing both sides of the case, and gives the defence the right of cross-examination.

As soon as the Court announced its decision Lawyer Coleman asked for a direction of the Court to insure promptness, in view of the condition of health of the witnesses.

Justice Heach replied, with a slight smile, that inasmuch as the plaintiff had waited forty-three years to assert the marriage sie was not entitled now to more than ordinary promptness.

Mr. Dillon then remarked that the defence wished to go ahead as rapidly as possible with the taking of testimony, adding "promptly, and in the light of day, too."

But very little of the story behind the suit appears in the papers, which were filed with the Clerk of the court yesterday. The affidavits on which the motion for the commission was made simply show that Nathaniel Leighton, a clergy-man, who is alleged to have performed the marriage ceremony, and his daughter, Mary M. Leighton, an alleged witness of sent to her leaving home to give testimony.

After the hearing yesterday Mr. Pierce said to a StN reporter:

"Just at present we do not want to say any more about the case than what is contained in the affidavits of Helen W. and Edwin tould. We are confident that the case is a trumped-up one and are not at allworried about it. This woman claims to have married lay Gould in 1853, when he was but 16 years of age, and waited until a long time after his death before making any claim on him. If she were a woman of any intelligence she would have known of his wealth and prominence during his lifetime and would have been heard from them. As it is, she married another man, lived many years with him, and did not think of making a claim on Mr. Gould or his estate intil nearly three years after his death. Leannot tell what our line of defence will be; it would be unwise to state that at the present time, but, as I have said, we are not worrying about the result of it. All we want is to get about of their witnesses and are not wortying about the result of it. All we want is to get shold of their witnesses and cross-examine them orally."

Lawyer George S Coleman, who made the motion, said:

"I know positively nothing about the merits of this case. I do not know the plaintiff or any of the witnesses, and I have no idea of the line of fight laid out by the lawyers. I was simply asked by Mr. Ward of Ward & Cameron of Albany to make this motion for them, Mr. Ward not caring to come down to New York at the present time. It was simply a formal motion, and having made it I do not expect to have anything more to do with the case. From a few hurried conversations I have had with Mr. Ward, I understand that he and a clerk in his office, named Brown, have seen most of the important witnesses in the case and secured their affidavits. Mrs. Brown has personally talked with the clergy man who is said to have performed the cerem on, and his daughter, who is said to have witnessed it, while Mr. Ward has seen Mrs. Edford and the plaintiff. All have made affidavits, as I understand it, and Mr. Ward told me that in Mrs. Angell's statement there are many things which form substantial cause for action."

The attorneys for the Goulds have been expecting the case to reach court for the past sigmonths. The story of the alleged marriage between Sarah Ann Brown, the differate servent girl of Rouse's Point, Canada, and Jay Gould, then known as Jason Gould, a young surveyor, was published more than a year ago. Three times before have alleged first wives of Jay Gould, then known as Jason Gould, a young surveyor, was published more than a year ago. Three times before have alleged first wives of Jay Gould. replied Mr. Genid, "I will see what I can do for you."

This conversation, it is alleged, was everheard by a United States mershal, who has made an affidavit. Another affidavit, made by a Mr. Filtmore of San Francisco, is said to set forth that Mr. Gould once told Filtmore that he had in his youth married a girl in the northern part of the State, but believed she was dead.

The Rev. Mr. Leighton is said to have made affidavit that he distinctly remembers marrying Sarah Ann Brown and Jason toudle on April 16, 1853, at Champlate, N. Y. His daughter and Mary Ann Solels wife of George Edford of Hinchinbrook, Canada, are said to depose that they witnessed the marriage.

said before, I want to treat the question in a liberal and progressive spirit.

Mr. Russell Sage was more outspoken in declaring that the Manhattan Company would not accede to the demands for up-town extensions before the lower lines are built. Mr. Sage directed attention to the experience of the Manhattan Company with its present suburban line, which he said had cost $1,500,000, and which had never paid more than its operating expenses. He said that the company must be allowed to build the down-town lines and increase its earnings, so that it could afferd to build into the country. He would insist, too, that release from damages to property owners along the lines should be secured, and that some agreement to this effect should be made that would hold in law.

Rapid Transit Commissioner John H. Inman said that a delay in securing better facilities seemed now inevitable, but that the Commission was ready to take the matter up, and would carefully consider the proposition made by the rallway company.

Two Rings She Was Accused of Stealing Found Afterward Under a Tidy on the Dressing Case of Mrs. Telner, Her Mis-tress-Grand Jury Refuses to Indict Rer. BRICK CHURCH, N. J., June 12.-Mary Stalger was fully acquitted to-day of a charge of theft, for which she had been sent to jail, by the discovery that the jewelry which she was accused of stealing had not been stolen at all.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Teiner live at 117 North Sixteenth street, East Orange. About three weeks ago they engaged Miss Staiger to do genoral bousework. On Thursday afternoon of last week Mrs. Tetner missed two finger rings. One a solid gold wedding ring and the other a small solitaire diamond ring.

She searched for them, but could not find them, and finally accused the girl of having stolen them. The latter indignantly denied the charge. When Mr. Teiner returned home from business Mrs. Teiner informed him of her suspictons, and he, too, accused the girl and endeavored to make her confess, but she continued to protest her innocence.

Early on Saturday morning Mr. Teiner went to Newark and consulted a clairvoyant. He renewed his charge against her, saying that the clairvoyant woman had said she had stolen the rings and buried them outside the house. Finally Mr. Teiner said that if she did not produce the rings within ten minutes he would have her arrested.

She said that she would willingly submit to arrest, and the two went to the East Orange police station. Mr. Teiner told Justice Ellott and the officers present. Chief Blaurock and Deuestive Hell, of his suspicions. The girl was closely questioned, but she persisted that she was innocent. The Chief and detective both agreed that there was not sufficient evidence to hold her, but Mr. Teiners decided to swear out a complaint charging her to the best of his sknowledge and belief with the theft. The officers, it is said, although they are loath to discuss the point themselves, advised Justice Elliott against taking the complaint and issuing a warrant on such insufficient evidence.

The Justice, however, said he knew the complaint and issued the warrant. Detective Bell went to Mr. Teiner's residence and brought the girl's trunk and a log containing her clothing to the police station, but a search failed to discover the missing rings. Mary was finally committed by Justice Elliott to the county iall in default of $100 ball to wait the action of the Grand Jury.

On Sunday morning, by previous agreement, Detective Bell called at the residence of Mr. Teiner to investigate the case further. Immediately upon his arrival he was Informed that the rings had been found by Mr. Teiner on Teiner to investigate the case further. Immediately upon his arrival he was informed that the rings had been found by Mr. Feiner on Saturday night at about 10 o'clock under a tidy on a dressing case in his wife's bedroom.

He left them where he found them, and Detective Bell took charge of them. On Tuesday the case came up before the Grand Jury. Mr. and Mrs. Teiner and Detective Bell were present to give their testimony, but only Mr. Teiner was called. It is supposed that he informed the Grand Jury of the discovery. At any rate, the case was thrown out, and yesterday the girl was released from Jail.
